Petite Sirah

VINTAGE 2009 | CALIFORNIA

FROM THE WINEMAKER

Thirty-two years after it was first produced by the Bogle family in 1978, Petite Sirah is today considered Bogle's "heritage" varietal. Once again the trademark qualities shine through in a wine that is the perfect integration of fruit and oak.

Voluptuous and full-bodied on the entry, the heady aromas of black currants and plums awaken the senses. Lusciously jammy and inky in appearance, the concentrated fruit wraps itself around tones of pipe tobacco, leather and cocoa, to mesmerize the palate. Juniper and spice seduce the supple tannins, as this wine finishes long and lingering, but not before a final touch of acidity charms the balanced mouthfeel yet again.

SERVED BEST WITH

Try this unique wine with rich meat dishes of lamb, pork or game and their hearty sauces.
